

HEPATOLOGY and Liver Transplantation Limited Call for Applications: Editorial Fellow

Deadline: March 29, 2024

HEPATOLOGY and Liver Transplantation, AASLD's flagship journals, are seeking candidates who are interested in a year-long Editorial Fellowship.

Overview

The Editorial Fellowship is available to trainee members of the AASLD, particularly previous Emerging Liver Scholars or members of the Liver Fellow Network, who are interested in gaining more experience in the scholarly publishing and editorial processes. As an editorial fellow, trainees will gain insight about manuscript submission, manuscript editing, response to reviewer comments, manuscript resubmission, the peer review process, and the selection and authorship of editorials and review articles under the supervision of experienced journal editors. The editorial fellow will also help generate educational materials to disseminate the information to emerging liver scholars, other interested fellows, and junior faculty.

Fellowship Duties and Expectations

- The fellowship will last for one year
- The time commitment averages about 4 to 6 hours per week
- During the year, the AASLD editorial fellow will:
 - Learn and develop educational content on the process of formatting, submitting, revising, and resubmitting a manuscript
 - Follow select articles from invitation to submission to publication
 - Learn how electronic manuscript review systems work
 - Coauthor editorials and/or review articles

Eligibility

- Applicants should be self-motivated, independent, and have a strong interest in medical publishing, editing, and peer review
- To be eligible for the AASLD Editorial Fellowship, trainees must:
 - Be an AASLD trainee member (ILTS members will be considered for the Liver Transplantation fellowship only)
 - Preferably have been an Emerging Liver Scholar, but all AASLD trainee members are eligible
 - Be in training* during the editorial fellowship year
 - First through third year gastroenterology fellows
 - Pilot or fourth year hepatology fellows
 - Have a record of publications in peer-reviewed journals and have strong writing skills

Each candidate should submit the following documents to Ann Haran at aharan@asld.org by March 29, 2024:

- 1. Curriculum vitae (Please be sure to include the following information):
 - Name

1001 North Fairfax Street, 4th Floor, Alexandria, VA 22314

Phone: 703-299-9766 Fax: 703-299-9622 Web: AASLD.org Email: asld@asld.org

- Name of current institution and institutional record
- Current career stage (example: 2nd year in gastroenterology fellowship)
- List of publications
- AASLD member status
- Address
- Primary phone
- Email

2. Personal Statement

500-word personal statement that includes a description of your career aspirations, goals for the editorial fellowship year, and your planned research and/or editorial project. Please indicate whether you would like to be considered for HEPATOLOGY, Liver Transplantation, or both.

3. Letter of Recommendation

One letter of recommendation is required from a program director or department chair within your fellowship institution